OUR STAKE IN THE WORLD

The American people "have the right to say that there shall not be an organization of world affairs which permits us no choice but to turn our countries into barracks, unless we are to be vassals of some conquering empire."

Few Americans will deny this statement of the right of the people of this country, as expressed by the President in his Pan-American Day speech.

We not only have the right to reject any association with nations espousing such an organization of world affairs but we have the duty to act always to strengthen the hands of those who have faith in the same ideals of government and peace that we have.

It is not fighting the battles of Great Britain and France to throw the weight of this nation's industry on the side of nations that we have no present reason to fear. It is not fighting the battles of Great Britain and France to prefer a world in which peace-loving, liberty-loving peoples can live together without subordinating all activity to warfare.

Sam Spencer Improving

Another Brick for Main

For twenty-six years, since its incorporation, San Marino, California, has been a churchless community. Noted for its fine homes, the Huntington Library and Art Museum, the town of 5,000 people has no churches, no theatres, no beer parlors, no cocktail lounges and only two or three cafes.

Recently two denominations requested permission to erect churches. Scores of residents protested and the people will vote on the issue next month.

We may not know much about social security, and we probably do not, but our own idea is that the benefits should accrue without regard to need. It may take years to reach this goal but fair play suggests it.

WAR!

Another European war has broken out which has already within the past few days involved many world powers. It came suddenly and unexpectedly, notwithstanding the preparedness of those nations already involved.

We Americans have a lot to consider as we stand by and see a dictatorial power smash a small democratic nation. We must consider seriously our neutrality policies.

Many of us remember all too vividly the conflict of some twenty-five years ago which consequently involved the whole world. We remember the thrill of patriotism! We do not like to think that our efforts in that conflict of world powers were entirely lost of some lasting good. It is hoped by all observers that the great antagonist—the German dictator—will see his folly and stop his aggression before other millions pay with their lives.

Our National administration is to be complimented for its attitude in the matter. We have only to wait to see the outcome—and while waiting let us pray for that one thing so dear to the heart of every normal human being, and that thing is PEACE!—DONALD E. WEBB.

MRS. W. W. HANKS

CONGRESS MISLEADS HITLER!

The situation in Europe sums up about like this:

Either Hitler is bluffing or Great Britain and France are bluffing, or the world will soon see the nations of Europe at each other's throats.

The situation of the United States is:

Our people want no war. If the conflict last very long, however, the trend of events in Europe will profoundly affect national sentiment. If Germany and Italy appear to have a chance to defeat Great Britain and France the pressure for American intervention will overcome our anti-path to war.

Because of a belief that Hitler would not begin a war with the risk this country will take sides against him, many Americans have believed that the surest way to keep this country out of a war would be to "persuade" Hitler that the odds are too great against his venture.

The passage of amendments to the neutrality act, serving notice that Great Britain and France would be allowed to buy supplies here would have warned Hitler that the material resources of the United States were on the side of his antagonists.

Defeat of the amendments may have misled Mr. Hitler into the belief that the United States will not sell Great Britain and France the munitions that they may need in the course of a struggle. If this is the conclusion in Hitler's mind, it might easily persuade him to risk a war.

In the interest of peace, however, somebody should tell Herr Hitler that Congress often changes its mind; and somebody should tell him immediately.

Have Outdoor Supper

The following spent a very pleasant evening Friday of last week at Elam's Camp, near Wrigley: Ella K. Turner, Chrystal Howard, Floris V. Cox, Nell Taulbee Byrne, Betty Carter, Mildred Whitt, Helen O. Price, Messrs. Wendell Nickell, Coy Hibbard, Earl Pelfrey, Major Gardner and Tommy Stith. The outdoor supper was surprisingly good, being prepared by the male members of the group, while the women gathered wood, carried water, etc. The meal was topped off with a marshmallow roast and watermelon.

After eating the group assembled around the fire and to the accompaniment of Earl Pelfrey and his guitar sang many songs before returning homeward.

New Pastor for Here

At the Conference of the new unified Methodist church held at Winchester last week Kenneth Clay was assigned to the West Liberty charge. Mr. Clay is a young man and conscientious churchman. W. W. Garriott who was the pastor here last year has been assigned to New Columbus and Salem churches with his postoffice at Corinth, Ky.

Mrs. Fannin Appointed

Mrs. Stella Fannin was appointed to fill out the unexpired term as County Court Clerk of her husband, George I. Fannin deceased. Mrs. Fannin has always been interested in the work of this office and knows the ins and outs of the office as perhaps no other person.

Left-handed persons are at a disadvantage in almost every calling, with the single exception of professional baseball, according to a psychologist. He advises that children who show a tendency to left-handedness be trained early to use their right hands.

FARMERS' COLUMN

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

A bumper potato crop brought Whitley county farmers $8,625 for 7,500 bags marketed outside the county. Digging started July 1 when the price was high, but heavy rains cut into marketing operations.

Ran Holcomb, Letcher county, has 43 colonies of bees, with three full supers of honey on each colony. Each super contains approximately 45 pounds of honey.

The coming of electricity to farms in Letcher county was celebrated at a meeting attended by 2,000 farm men and women. Electrical farm equipment, and washing machines, irons, lights and refrigerators have been bought in quantity in the past two months.

W. E. Payton of Boyd county spread limestone and phosphate on a 15-acre field and fall seeded a grass mixture. This spring he again seeded sweet clover and redtop. This pasture has carried 30 steers now averaging 950 pounds, and 40 hogs that have averaged a pound gain daily. Work stock also were pastured on the field.

More than half of the flocks of sheep in Carter county now are western high-grade ewes headed by purebred Southdown rams. More flocks are being established this fall. Several farmers last year realized an income greater than the original cost of starting flocks.

Williams O. Mays of Lee county has a 3-acre field of corn on top a mountain that would be hard to beat in the Bluegrass, reports County Agent T. H. Jones. He spread limestone screenings, fertilizer and manure liberally and drilled in corn. Sweet clover was seeded at the last corn cultivation.

7,000 Kinds of Apples

There are 7,000 varieties of apples in the world, says Prof. C. S. Waltman of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, in his new bulletin, "Tree Fruit Varieties for Kentucky." Needless to say, not all of them are known in Kentucky; in fact, only about 25 kinds are important for home or commercial plantings, and of these, 12 represent nearly 80 percent of the commercial apple crop of the United States. Prof. Waltman describes various kinds of apples, peaches, pears, cherries plums and other tree fruits grown in Kentucky, and discusses problems connected with their production.

CARE OF THE HANDS

Women who work need not have ugly hands, says Miss Iris S. Davenport, style specialist for the Kentucky College of Agriculture. Rather, because they work their hands should be strong, firm and "purposeful" in appearance. To be beautiful, they need only to be well cared for—and this is a major part of good grooming.

The following suggestions are made: Wear rubber gloves when it is necessary to have the hands in lye or any similar substance. Wear outdoor gloves when hoeing, raking or doing other garden work.

Avoid strong soaps. They may be expensive in the long run.

At night, use cream on the hands lavishly, just as on the face.

Keep the nails the exact right length. They should be attended to weekly if not oftener. A rounded or oval shape probably is best, following the outline of the finger and not too short.

After filing the nails, use an emery board—otherwise, important items such as stockings may be snagged. Keep the cuticle soft with cream at night, and keep it pushed back adequately.

The idea that bright nail polish isn't used by real ladies went out a long time ago; it now is used by people of indisputable good breeding. However, a light or flesh-colored polish is preferred by many women, and it is quite all right to use. Even if nervous, don't bite the finger nails—they aren't responsible for anyone's troubles and should not be punished. It is a childish, ungraceful habit.

In washing the hands, keep a stiff little brush which can be used if dirt has become imbedded in the skin.

MISS THE FARMERS

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States reports an "upswing" in business with signs of "expansion." It all began, says the business organization, when Congress revised the tax structure and other favorable developments on Capital Hill. Now, test some unsuspecting business man in this neck of the woods gets too optimistic, we point out that the Chamber is talking about industry, apparently, because there are little signs that business will be any better for the farmers of the nation.

Manufacturers of farm implements, who earlier expected sales in the last half of the year to make up for decreased sales in the earlier months, now see their hopes glimmering. The farmers won't have as much to spend as the implement makers thought and, consequently, business will be a little bit off.

Why should anybody expect business to boom in an agricultural area? Farm income, despite the enormous gains recorded since the dark days of 1932, is not yet up to what it will have to be to create anything like a balance between agriculture and industry. Without the balance there will not be the exchange of goods and commodities that make trade.

PREVENT FARM FIRES

Three thousand lives were lost and $95,000,000 worth of property destroyed in farm fires in the United States last year. Such simple precaution as a barrel of water, pails and a ladder would help prevent and control many fires, says a statement from the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky. One or more long ladders should be kept in a convenient place, where they could be had to climb to roofs. Then, if there is a barrel or tank of water near, and buckets handy, fires often can be checked before much damage is done.

Frequent inspection of chimneys, flues and fireplaces; care in storing gasoline and kerosene; careful disposal of rubbish and hot ashes, and inspection of electrical wiring and appliances are other precautions that help to reduce the cost of farm fires.

PHOSPHATE AND LIME

Applications of two tons of limestone and 50 pounds of triple superphosphate to the acre gave profitable increases in crop yields in tests made on Trigg county, Kentucky, farms under the guidance of Kenneth A. Brabant, acting as assistant county agent.

On 52 farms where both materials were used, wheat yields increased an average of 8 bushels to the acre, or from 6.8 bushels on untreated land. Lespedeza seed production was increased from an average of 122 pounds to the acre to an average of 325 pounds. Increases in hay yields resulting from the use of both limestone and superphosphate were: lespedeza, 2,504 pounds to the acre; alfalfa, 3,380 pounds; red clover, 2,312 pounds. Alfalfa on treated land produced nearly two and three-quarters tons of hay to the acre, and red clover more than two tons to the acre.

Stands of redtop, orchard grass, Kentucky bluegrass, brome grass, meadow fescue, Canadian bluegrass and other grazing crops were better where limestone and superphosphate were used.

In practically all tests, the use of either limestone or superphosphate alone gave small increases in yields, with big increases where both materials were applied.

Goldsmith Maid

Goldsmith Maid, the famous trotting horse, is buried at Fashion Stud farm, Trenton, N. J. Over the grave is a monument bearing the inscription: "Here lies Goldsmith Maid, queen of trotters for seven years. Born in Sussex county, 1857, died here September 23, 1885. Best record 2:14, made at Boston in 1874. Earned $364,200, the world's record. Driven by Bud Doble. Owned by Henry N. Smith."

Rose Is Secrecy Symbol

For centuries the rose has been the symbol of secrecy. The preposition "sub" means under. In places of sanctuary where confidences were to be exchanged, it was customary to carve a rose over the entrance. Literally, to be under the rose was to have the benefits of secrecy.

Typhoid Vaccination

Vaccination against typhoid fever gives protection against the disease for at least two or two and one-half years.

Bradley. He was taken to the Good Samaritan hospital for treatment before being locked up.

Vester Fultz, 7 year old son of Mrs. Vesta Fultz, living on Christy Creek, was seriously injured Monday night when struck by a hit-and-run driver. Later it was learned that the driver of the hit-and-run car was William Binion of Ohio. The boy suffered a broken leg and numerous cuts and bruises. The local sheriff's office was notified and attached the car belonging to Binion which was in a local garage, but Binion had left for his home in Ohio and could not be apprehended.—Rowan County News.

WASHINGTON NOTES

Whips

The disaffection within the ranks of the Democratic Party will probably be increased at the next session if Patrick J. Boland, majority whip, dismisses seven of the sixteen assistant whips who served under him because "of their disloyalty to President Roosevelt, as evidenced by their opposition to the President's legislative program."

Closed

The United States considers the incident at Tientsin, where a Japanese sentry slapped an American woman as closed. The Japanese reported that the sentry had been disciplined and that instructions had been issued to accord courteous treatment to American citizens.

Unconfirmed

A report from London that four large German submarines were en route to establish a base in the Caribbean in order to attack the French Island of Martinique should war develop led the State Department to report "no corroboration."

Roberts

Among those being "talked" about in connection with the Republican nomination for the presidency next year is Justice O. J. Roberts of the U. S. Supreme Court. In 1916, Justice Hughes, now Chief Justice, was drafted from the Supreme Court to become the Republican nominee.

Tax Study

In an effort to further improve the laws relating to individual and corporation taxes, John W. Hanes, acting-Secretary of the Treasury, has invited leaders of the industry, banking, labor, commerce, agriculture and the professions to cooperate in a study of the Federal tax structure now being made by the Treasury and a sub-committee of the House.

Busy

With unfilled orders exceeding $300,000,000, aircraft and engine plants are scenes of intense activity. Last year, total sales were only about $68,000,000. Wage earners in airplane plants numbered 35,925 at the end of June, compared with 24,739 in January.

Foot Soldiers

While the Army's "streamlined" division, completely mechanized can move along highways at a speed of around thirty miles an hour, contrasted with the two and a half-mile-an-hour speed of foot soldiers, Army officers continue to assert that foot troops, able to gain and hold ground will continue to be the backbone of fighting tactics.

Nye Boom

Reports in Washington indicate that Senator Nye, of North Dakota, will have a "favorite son" boom in his state. The North Dakota senator is planning a coast-to-coast speaking tour, beginning in October. He is certain to assail the Administration's foreign policies.

MILK STILL RATES AS PERFECT FOOD

Nutrition Studies Disclose High Vitamin Content.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

In the last quarter century the field of nutrition has advanced more than in all the previous centuries of mankind. In that advance milk has held its place as the most nearly perfect food. From the point of view of protein and of fat, of mineral salts and of vitamins, it stands supreme. True, milk is somewhat deficient in vitamin C, a vitamin D, and in iron, but these values are easily supplied and no other food gives as much as milk for the money.

If there is any other highly important fact which our studies have revealed, it is that ordinarily we do not consume as much milk as we should, being led frequently by improper advice to other foods not nearly as efficient in human nutrition. Yet one-fifth of the food budget of the average American family is used for milk and milk products.

So important is milk for the human being that the health section of the League of Nations has recently made available a study of this product by a committee with representatives from Denmark, Holland, England, and France. It may surprise many Americans to realize that the milk supply in most foreign countries does not approximate in its general safety the average milk supply of the United States.

In many countries it has been customary to gloss over the unsatisfactory contents of the milk supply with the assurance that the benefits to health resulting from increased consumption will outweigh the danger of drinking milk that is not hygienic. In this country we know that the development of a good milk supply begins back on the farm with the cows and the quality of feed given to the cows.

Farmers Should Study Tractor Operating Cost

Two factors are important in tractor costs. One is the number of hours used, the other, economical loading. The first entails a study of the machine's varied uses, and of the possibility of increasing these uses. The latter necessitates a study of the draft requirement of different implements, and the ways and means of devising tractor hook-ups.

An example will help to make this point clear. A 14-inch moldboard plow at a certain depth will have a draft of 600 pounds. A one-way plow 14 inches wide would require a pull of about 250 pounds, while that width of spike-tooth harrow has a draft of only slightly more than 50 pounds.

Such a variation is true of all field implements and to load a tractor of a certain size economically, the operator must know the approximate draft of each tool.

Tractor engineers and farm management experts agree that each tractor owner should make a study of his machine to determine what will be an economical load, and then eliminate as much as possible the application of hitches with lower draft requirements. Manufacturers of tractors can furnish approximate figures on draft for each machine.

Milk for Diet

Although milk is considered by scientists as nature's "most nearly" perfect food, it can supply the nutritive requirements of a mature body for a long period of time without other supplement. The proof of this is well illustrated in the case of John Flaherty, a tailor in Niles, Ohio, whose diet for the past 20 years consisted only of milk. Mr. Flaherty recently died at the ripe old age of 75 years. He began the "all milk" diet in 1917 as a result of a stricture of the esophagus, which he contributed to an overdose of serum in inoculation during the war. From 1917 until his death he drank only a quart of milk a day.

Farm Facts

Each year about $150,000,000 worth of fuel comes from farm woodlands throughout the United States.

With a radio ownership of 69 per cent, farm families trail city cousins by 13 per cent, but farmers listen more, a recent survey of 14,000 rural families revealed.

A good cow under the most favorable conditions is able to consume about 150 pounds of green pasture herbage in a day. This task is done with a "mowing" apparatus about three inches wide.

Good crop rotations protect the soil, provide enough roughage for live stock, supply grain, distribute labor requirements, provide several sources of income, and assure a fair annual income unless uncontrollable economic conditions make this impossible.

Cost of Silver Affects World

Markets and Standards of Life Influenced by Price of Metal.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Silver was thrown into the spotlight of international interest when the price of freshly mined United States silver was recently upped to 71.11 cents an ounce.

"The cost of silver still affects money markets and standards of life around the globe," says the National Geographic society.

"In the silver-conscious East the fluctuation of this metal is an index to prosperity. Drastic shifts in its value bring sharp changes in living conditions, as happened in 1919 when the price of silver soared to $1.37 an ounce, and again, in 1932, when it dropped to 24½ cents an ounce.

"In mining regions of the Western hemisphere, especially in Mexico—the earth's Number One producer of the soft, pale substance—silver is closely linked with the people's welfare and the national economy.

Plays Vital Role in Life.

"For thousands of years silver has played a vital role in man's life. It was the first of metals widely used for money. Five hundred years before Christ, taxes from silver mines were added up in the financial books of the Greeks. From silver coins, called Joachimsthaler, struck off in the sixteenth century mint near Joachimsthal in central Europe, came the root word 'thaler'—from which was derived the symbol of cash, the dollar.

"Silver, with gold, lured the Conquistadores to the New world, and helped settle the American West. After the California gold rush came the bonanza silver finds of such states as Nevada, Utah and Colorado, where men became rich and towns grew 'wild.' Yet many individual miners who reaped fantastic fortunes from the silver flood died in poverty. Henry Comstock, who gave his name to one of the greatest mineral discoveries in history, the Comstock silver lode of Nevada, eventually committed suicide.

16 Billion Ounces Mined.

"In all, since the day of Columbus, it has been estimated that the world has mined more than 16,000,000,000 ounces of silver, worth something over $15,000,000,000. North America is the chief source of this metal. In 1938, Mexico produced about 85,000,000 fine ounces of silver, to the United States' 61½ millions. These figures represent a gain in production for Mexico over the preceding year, a loss for Uncle Sam.

"With the general demonetization of silver, have come many new modern uses for the metal in the industries and the arts. Silver today is a familiar commodity of everyday life around the globe, serving in objects from a California golf trophy to an East Indian bride's dowry. It is found on tea carts and inside a man's chest, patching up a war wound; in the headress of an Ethiopian chief and in altar decorations of a Peruvian church; in tiny parts for telephone equipment and in the countless miles of film on which Hollywood stars parade for moviegoers from Morocco to Montana. One big camera company estimates that it melts down more than 250 tons of silver each year for use in film.

"In the United States and Canada alone, according to 1938 figures, some 27,000,000 ounces of silver were used in art and industry."

Sixth Woman in Charge Of Forestry Fire Tower

EXETER, R. I.—High up in the Pine Hill fire tower sits Mrs. Hope Andrews—the sixth woman to be fire warden there.

Taking over the job recently, Mrs. Andrews admitted it was "quite a change" from the little schoolhouse in West Greenwich where she formerly taught.

Although still confined within four walls, Mrs. Andrews now commands a view of most of Rhode Island and part of Connecticut. She learned the technical part of her job from her father-in-law, Leon Andrews, former chief of the forestry bureau.

She is on duty from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. For some reason, either design or accident, a woman always has been chosen to "man" the Exeter fire tower.

College Class Studies On Small, Lonely Isle

ISLES OF SHOALS, N. H.—No distractions should disturb the work of some 40 students of the University of New Hampshire summer school. For their classroom is on a small island 10 miles at sea, and their only neighbors are a group of coast-guardsmen and a small colony of fishermen. The students are members of the marine zoological class, and their eight-week stay on Apple Isle is their laboratory work.

The island is one of the Isles of Shoals group, and is not far from the spot where the submarine Squallus sank last May.

Barrel Rolled Across Canada HALIFAX, N. S.—Burnest Heard, an Ontario youth, has just completed a 5,579-mile trek from coast to coast rolling a barrel.

HERE AND THERE

An Irishman entered a ticket office one day and inquired the fare to Chicago.

"Ten dollars," returned the clerk, "but we are making a special rate today. We'll sell you a round-trip ticket for fifteen dollars."

"A round-trip? What do you mean?" puzzled the Irishman.

"Yes," explained the clerk, "you can go to Chicago and back."

"Well," said Pat, "what do I want to come back for, when I'm already here?"

False Alarm

The host showed his guest into his bedroom.

"I hope you're not nervous, old chap," he said, "but this room is supposed to be haunted."

"Haunted!" exclaimed the guest.

"What by?"

"A wraith—a spectre!"

"A w-what?"

"A wraith—a spectre."

The guest sighed with relief, and the color returned to his cheeks.

"Oh, that's all right!" he said at last. "At first I thought you said a rate collector!"

More Profitable

An amiable old man, a visitor, was trying to win the friendship of the small daughter of the house.

"I'll give you a nickel for a kiss," he said.

"No, thank you," she replied sweetly. "I can make more money taking castor oil."

THIS WAY IN

"Young lady, I shall never darken your doors again."

"How y' gonna git in—through the windows?"

Something From Above

"Isn't there danger," said the timid man, "of dropping things from an airplane on the people below?"

"That isn't the worst," answered the candid inventor, "you're lucky if the whole thing doesn't fall on you."

Chief Concern

First Farmer—Which is correct, "A hen is sitting" or "A hen is setting?"

Second Farmer—I don't know, and I don't care; All I bother about is when she cackles—is she laying or is she lying!

Hard to Please

"In running for office," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "you cannot please every one; the best that you can do is to look benignly pleasant and convey the impression that everybody pleases you."

On a Dude Ranch

Cowboy—What kind of saddle do you want—one with or without a horn?

Dude—Without a horn, I guess. There doesn't seem to be much traffic out on these prairies.

Maybe It's Well

Magistrate—The policeman says that you and your wife had some words.

Accused—I had some, sir, but I didn't get a chance to use them.

WRECKLESS DRIVING?

"He was arrested for reckless driving."

"When he'd smashed his car to splinters like that?"

Hey, That Girl's In Again!

He—Why did you send that poor fellow back for your cold cream?

He'll never find it.

She—I only wanted to get the chap off my hands.

People Are Too Suspicious

Judge—How could you swindle people who trusted in you?

Prisoner—But, Judge, people who don't trust you can't be swindled.

MORGAN COUNTY SCHOOL PAGE

(Under Auspices of Ova O. Haney, County Supt.)

LAUREL FORK SCHOOL

This is the eighth week of school and it finds us busy with our school work but we play just as hard outside of school. We have organized our Boons and Penns club and are having much competition.

We have been trying to make our school ground more attractive by having the pupils to pick up all the papers that are thrown over the ground and had the logs and trash all hauled away.

We took a hike Friday afternoon and spent the afternoon playing games and telling stories. The children seemed to enjoy this very much and hope to go again soon.

Our visitors so far have been our helping teacher, Opie McKenzie, Mrs. Sanford Williams, Mrs. Floyd Whit, Mrs. Auty O'Neil Miss Arlene Wheeler, Hazel Fannin, Mary Anna and Blugh Wheeler, Delphia McClure, Helen Elam, Monie Wingo. The Sunday school teachers, Miss Beckley and Miss Smith, visit our school once a week and have given us some interesting lessons. One of the board members, Harlen Murphy, Joe Wolford and R. C. Littleton visited us and gave each of us a nice pencil.

We are trying to make this a most successful school year. There will be a pie supper at the Laurel Fork school Friday night, September 8. Every one invited to attend.

OSHIE WINGO, Teacher

BANNER SCHOOL

Banner school pupils gave an interesting little program as follows:

1. Bible reading—Vinson Johnson Song—School

Stories and poems by the first, second, third and fourth grades.

Song—5 little folks.

5. Negro quarrel—two boys (Clayton Duhn and Wheeler Johnson).

Jokes—Jewell Shaver

Queer conversation—two colored folks—Rosa and Carl Shaver.

An address—Jocie Shaver. After the program we had a softball game. Those participating besides pupils were: Leander Riggsby, Olden Potter, Earl Shaver, Paul Wright, Junior and Robert Dulin, Misses Edna Belle Shaver, Mary Dulin, Lydia Johnson, Phoebe Elam and Stella Shaver, Mrs. Kelly Johnson and Jim Shaver, Pete Elam, Franklin and Fae Johnson.

Our helping teacher, Mr. McKenzie, visited us last Tuesday. We were glad to have him. Hope he comes again soon.

Paul, Lura Mae and Jocie Johnson from the Masonic Home visited us Monday and returned to Louisville Wednesday where they will enter their school in the home.

The Boons and Penns are working very hard. We are also making a bulletin board.

We are very anxious for a visit from our county health doctor and nurse.

We are planning a trip to the zoo sometime soon. Not many of us have been to Cincinnati. Neither have we seen any large animals therefore we think it will be quite interesting and educational.

DAISY SHAVER, Teacher

VANCE FORK SCHOOL

Sept. 4.—Our first month's news was not published for some reason. We are doing fine except for the number out because of mumps. Several have this disease but we hope to have them back soon. The health nurse, Miss Noble, was here last week.

The Penns and Boons are trying hard to take first place this month. There is a fine spirit shown each day on the playground and class rooms between these teams.

With our pie supper funds, we have bought a water cooler, window curtains and rods and inside paint for house.

We plan on having our County Agent to visit us Thursday and take some pictures. We plan on having many parents present. We hope our worthy Supt. Mr. Ova O. Haney, can be present.

We have a volley ball court and also a basketball court which gives us a fine chance to contest between the Boons and Penns. We plan on visiting Holliday school when the weather is cooler.

The 8th grade has all their books now but Geography. They plan to study hard to try to complete the books even if they did arrive late. We all plan for a banner school year.

TRIP TO CINCINNATI

The Cottle school children with some of their parents and Mr. and Mrs. Orear Elam, the teachers, left for Cincinnati early Sunday morning, August 27. This was the first long trip for most of the crowd. They saw a number of interesting and exciting things. Every one took their lunch and spread it on the picnic grounds at the Zoo. After finishing our lunch everybody enjoyed the sights of the Zoo. After spending three hours watching the different animals we went to Coney Island.

I think most of the group liked Coney Island better than the Zoo. Most of the children rode on the various things and had loads of fun watching others ride the cars, wild cat, airplanes, etc. The most interesting thing was the trapeze performances. We spent about two hours here and then started home. We stopped twice and got something to eat on the way back. We got to West Liberty about nine o'clock, a little tired and sleepy, but everybody had a good time and wanted to go back again.

HELPING TEACHERS

Peanut Connoisseur

Bruce Dudley, executive manager of the Louisville (Ky.) baseball club, who is a connoisseur of peanuts, insists that one bad peanut can ruin a spectator's enjoyment of an entire game. "If you bite into a soggy, damp peanut when your mouth is open, your mouth is ruined and so's the game as far as you're concerned," he explained.

Glowworms Light Mine

When an old gold mine was reopened recently near Karangahake, New Zealand, miners found countless glowworms 1,000 feet below the surface. They were so numerous that in one stretch of about 100 feet it was possible to walk along the truck rails using only the beetles' light.

Dodge Death by a Second

Psychologists have found that approximately one-fifth of American automobile drivers dodge death by a second. This is the time these drivers allow themselves to get back in line in the face of on-coming traffic after passing a car.

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

FRESH rosy peaches baked with canned unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice and sugar, served hot with a dash of powdered mace or a sprinkling of grated nutmeg will add a special flip to the meat course, especially if roast chicken is the piece de resistance. Or try them for dessert, minus the spice, serving with thin cream instead or hard sauce flavored with nutmeg or mace. Prepare the peaches this way: Pour boiling water over eight firm but ripe peaches, rub off skins and place fruit close together in a baking dish. Sprinkle with one-half cup granulated sugar, pour over one-half cup pineapple juice, cover and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) about 20 minutes, then remove cover and allow fruit to brown slightly. Serve hot as suggested above. This amount will make eight servings.

The Youth in Business

By C. E. Johnston

Dean, School of Business International Correspondence Schools

SOMEONE has said "that it is good to be able to take orders, but that it is better to be able to give orders." This statement means that the men who occupy important positions in business and in society today are those who give orders to others and do this in such a way that their commands are carried out promptly and cheerfully and without friction and ill-feeling being aroused. The ability to give orders, important as it is, is not as important to the young man in his first years in business as the ability to take orders.

The way a young man reacts to the orders and suggestions of superiors tells much about his temperament and his ability to deal with people. It also indicates the keenness of his intelligence and his powers of self-control. In general, the ability to take orders and to carry them out promptly, efficiently and cheerfully is what first draws the attention of senior executives to a junior employee and causes them to regard him as a possibility for promotion.

So much emphasis is placed on new ideas in business today, that the young employee is apt to think that his advancement will depend on his ability to make startling suggestions for improvements in operations. It should be borne in mind that while original conceptions are of importance to the success of a business, new ideas that are worth while are only likely to occur to those who have studied business principles and have become thoroughly familiar with the details of the operation of the departments in which they are employed. Young men and young women who think that their original ideas will assure them promotion are merely wishful thinkers. There is no easy road to success in business.
